

2022 ANNUAL REPORT

SILOAM HEALTH

Health Care Transformed By Love

DEAR SILOAM PARTNER,

On behalf of the board and staff of Siloam Health during the 2021-22 fiscal year, we want to extend our most sincere gratitude as we reflect on what God accomplished during that season. Because of your generosity, uninsured and underserved neighbors continued to rely on Siloam for whole-person health care that leads to healthy, flourishing lives.

From July 2021 through June 2022, Siloam increased the number of patients we served to nearly 6500 (a new high mark!) thanks to Siloam Health Antioch, our walk-in clinic operating in its second year. This kind of growth is only possible because of supporters like you who see the need of our new neighbors and respond with generosity.

While we celebrate the opportunity to serve more people and the positive impact this growth has on the health of our city, we also remember that the quality of care we provide is just as important as the quantity. As we grow, our staff remains committed to fostering genuine healing relationships where our patients feel safe and valued while they receive quality health care.

As you read through this annual report, we trust you will see this breadth and depth of care through the numbers we share and the stories we tell of individuals whose lives are different because of Siloam Health's work in medical care, community health, and student education.

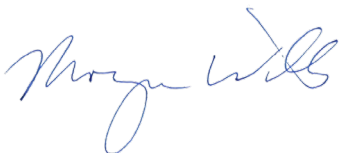

We also hope you will take a moment to pause and reflect on the fact that none of this happens without your generous gifts of time, talent, finances, and prayers. Your gifts are a catalyst for healing and a reminder to all of us of God's faithfulness to everyone, especially the marginalized.

Thank you for partnering with us in this mission to share the love of Christ with those in need through health care.

Yours in service,

Dr. Morgan Wills
President & CEO

When Nasr and his wife Ikbal arrived in the United States from Egypt, they were hoping for a better life.

As newly-arrived immigrants without insurance, they were unsure of where to go to find health care or for the prescription medications they needed, but Nasr recalls "I had a brother here, and he told me – 'just go to Siloam and they will help you out.'"

As a patient at Siloam Health, Nasr experienced love and quality care. "Every person in this clinic from reception to the providers has provided excellent care..." Nasr says, "they made us feel safe."

Safe, reliable health care was a dream of Nasr's - as a younger man he had suffered a heart attack that left him with chronic heart issues. During a visit with his Siloam provider, Lauren Smith, he had an abnormal heart test result indicating he was at high risk for a second heart attack. Lauren and Brenda Caruthers, Siloam Health Referral Coordinator, connected him with a cardiologist who scheduled him for a cardiac catheterization.

Lauren also shared instructions with Nasr: she explained the signs of a heart attack and told him if he experienced any of those before the catheterization, he should go to the ER. A couple weeks later, before the scheduled procedure, Nasr experienced those symptoms and went to the ER. He was promptly admitted and had a successful emergency heart surgery.

When asked about his surgery today, Nasr will proudly show his scar – a physical testament to the thorough care he received at Siloam and the opportunity he now has to enjoy the better life he had hoped for in the United States.

ENNA'S STORY

Enna is a resilient woman who has faced many challenges in her life as an immigrant from Honduras making a way in a new homeland and as a single parent trying to provide for her family.

The challenges intensified when she was diagnosed with lupus - a chronic autoimmune disease in which the immune system sees the body's own healthy tissues and cells as foreign. The damage the disease did to her body, brain, and life made working and supporting her family difficult.

Through care from Siloam Health and a rheumatologist, Enna's lupus became more manageable, but she was still struggling with anxiety and depression. Then, in 2021 she connected with the Community Health Worker program at Siloam Health and Leo Galaviz began working with her. Leo listened to her, prayed with her, and helped her find a church.

Of Leo, Enna says "she's a big blessing in my life...Leo helped me learn how to connect with God, to be a better person, and to never give up." For years, Enna's challenges had weighed her down, but now she finds hope in both the good and difficult parts of life. "Today I can say I'm happy... now I accept everything."

Enna and Leo's relationship is a beautiful example of health care beyond the four clinic walls and how God sometimes brings helpers into our lives when we need them most - to walk with us, or pray with us, or remind us not to give up.

GEORGE'S STORY

Educating the next generation of health care workers in the art of whole-person, culturally sensitive care is a calling of ours at Siloam Health.

George Lin, a Vanderbilt medical student, explains that "Siloam offers an education you just can't get anywhere else in medical school about how to care for patients... beyond just their physical needs."

George's training at Siloam included the importance of understanding a patient's spiritual history. This understanding equipped him to resolve a difficult situation during his internal medicine rotation at Vanderbilt when a patient was refusing recommendations from the medical team because of her belief in God's healing. George shares that "I was able to speak with her and learn more about her beliefs around healing and how God could heal her. We were able to speak the same language." Through that shared language, she came to understand that her faith in God's power was respected by the medical staff who also wanted to provide the best care possible.

While at Siloam, George found deep purpose through providing care to the underserved because "You feel like you're a part of a bigger mission, you feel like you're a part of the Kingdom when you're there." Our hope and prayer for George and the many students who spend time at Siloam is that they carry these lessons with them, knowing that this "bigger mission" is also theirs and that the Kingdom comes wherever they go and provide whole-person care to those who need it most.

2022 AT A GLANCE: VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers are vital contributors at Siloam for the care they provide, their ability to increase the clinic staff's time to focus on patient care, and the personalized experience they provide for patients. Volunteers offer everything from primary and specialty care to interpretation, administration, and clinical support.

INGRID'S STORY

For Ingrid Quezada Mendoza, volunteering as a Spanish language interpreter with Siloam Health connects her to her past and to her future. Her family moved from Mexico when she was young, and she witnessed firsthand the struggle that newly arrived immigrants go through to get the help they need. Now as a Senior at Belmont University majoring in Neuroscience, she plans to go to medical school.

As a young child, Ingrid's family relied on the care of clinics like Siloam. She says that she volunteers in part because, "I see my own parents in the patients and myself in the younger patients, I remember how much I appreciated the help we received, and I hope to provide the same to others."

The gratitude she carries from her childhood is something she would like to pass on to the supporters of Siloam. "I think they should know that Nashville really appreciates what they are doing and that their help is providing opportunities to patients that they would've not had if Siloam did not exist."

Ingrid is an inspiring volunteer! We are grateful for her and our many volunteer interpreters who help bridge the communication gap for our patients.
